VOL. 6: NO. 305 CHAUVIN, ALBERTA, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 31st 1920 5c. per copy $1.50 per year in advance

G. W. V. A. Notes

A most encouraging meeting of the G. W. V. A. was held on Saturday night in the Club rooms. There was a fair attendance and a fair amount of business was gone through.

A committee was arranged for looking after a tennis court on the new club room site, so kindly donated by Comrade Herbert.

We intend moving down there on Monday next and would like to see all Vets gathered together at 9 p.m. willing and eager to help. Those of us who have teams might bring them, but come anyway.

The committee consists of J. A. McKenzie, A. Herbert and G. M. Beattie. A finance committee was also called for consisting of A. G. Sim Jeff Swan, and the Secretary-Treasurer T. H. committee is to engage in all manner of ways the elusive dollar and if possible, to vanquish him.

The Association are deeply grateful to Mr. L. D'Albertson for his kindness and helpfulness in connection with the C.P.F. I am sure all those who listened to his report of a visit to the Secretary of the C.P.F. feel as if quite a load were lifted off our minds and a brighter future in store for us.

We are also greatly indebted to the U.P.O.F. who after a most spirited auctioning of the edible delicacies donated $28.25 to the G.W.V.A. Roll of Honor Fund. The gift is all the more surprise as it came so unexpectedly. We wish to thank them again.

G.W.V.A. AUXILIARY NOTES

The G.W.V.A. Auxiliary held their regular monthly meeting on Saturday rooms.

A letter was read from Mrs. Chas. Kirby, resigning her position as 1st. Vice-President of the Auxiliary, and another 1st Vice-President was elected.

A committee was appointed to draw up an 'order of business' so that all matters brought up for consideration may be dealt with in a business like manner.

Final arrangements were made for the sale of work and home cooking to be held on Saturday next, April 3rd

The sale will be held in the G.W.V.A. Club rooms and will open at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The proceeds of the sale are to be devoted to the Roll of Honor Fund, and the ladies are hoping to be able to hand over a good sum to the treasurer of the Fund.

The rooms will be open from ten o'clock in the morning and one of the members will be in attendance to receive donations to the sale.

Gifts of eggs will be greatly appreciated from our country friends, and sandwiches cakes bread or other eatables will be most welcome gifts. Also plain or fancy needlework goods

The ladies will serve 15c. afternoon teas, and ask all friends from town and country to patronize them, and thus help to swell the Roll of Honor Fund.

Messrs Parcels and Foxwell have donated a Premium Ham towards this sale.

Three know it, all know it.

Roll of Honour: This Is The Final Revision

This list of the names for inclusion on the Honor Roll appears for the last time for final revision. It is particularly desired that those knowing of any omissions would notify the secretary of the Chauvin Great War Veterans without delay.

Chauvin High School Breezes

After the L.D. meeting last Friday, the pupils gave speeches on any Poet or Historian they chose. The following were the speakers and subjects:

Oliver Polkins on Edmund Burke;
Harry Heffren on T. R. Macaulay;
Dolly Saul on Adam Poe; Sadie Burton on Joseph Addison; Eileen Ellis on Longfellow; Florence Cahill on Richard Steele; Eunice Hass on Sir Walter Scott; Lizzie Morrison on Sir W. Laurier; Billie Ellis on Sir Walter Scott; Ian Armour on Robbie Burns; Elsie McCluskey on John Ruskin.

Another debate will take place on the 8th of April, the subject of which is, "Resolved that Boys should learn to Cook." Those on the affirmative are, Oliver Polkins, Lizzie Morrison and Eunice Hass; and those on the negative are Harry Heffren, Cecil Burton, and Billy Ellis.

Who has taken to learning gloves in the Highschool these days. The kind of wool she uses comes in envelopes.

Misses Ellen Ellis and Elsie McCluskey visited Mrs. Elsie Cahill last Wednesday night.

The Merchants' dryman thought there wasn't enough stirring round town so he took a tumble to himself. Why does Lizzie like the "Irish"?

Why does a Ribstone girl in Chauvin attract the Chauvin boys?

Everybody is well.

One of our local magistrates is getting so swollen with satisfaction (over a coming event) that he thinks he owns the side walk. Nothing less than an "Irish" will appease the injured feelings of the flappers, whom he crowded off the other day. This isn't a threat, it's an ultimatum!

Death and Funeral of Baby, Elaine Stevens

The many friends in Ribstone sympathize very much with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Steven in their sorrow and bereavement by the death of their daughter Elaine who passed away Saturday, March 27th through pneumonia, at the age of one year and eight months.

The body was interred at Ribstone cemetery, the Rev. Wm. Mitchellson or Westminster church Chauvin, conducted a short but very impressive service at the grave. "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" was also sung.

Our sympathies are with the father, mother and two brothers Arnold and Clinton, who mourn his loss.

The Tax Enforcement Returns for the Village of Chauvin are being prepared.

The Chauvin Young Peoples Society is having a social evening Thursday.

This following is a list of those who paid the supreme sacrifice, it particularly desirable that no name be omitted from the permanent roll. Your co-operation is sought.

Greenmeadow UFA.

We were very fortunate on Wed. Monday 24th in obtaining a speaker from the Scott Experimental Farm. The climatic conditions of Scott, Sask. are more identical with this locality than Lacombe although we belong in the Lacombe district.

Our meeting was called on rather a good number of our members were able to attend. We are watching to see if some of our farmers will chase the birds off the packers and put them in operation. Figures show it would be profitable on spring plowing at least. The point on Scotch sparrows. The point that went home to most of us was the forage problems; No doubt but what we will see a few acres seeded to spring rye with wheat as a nurse crop.

The problem of soil drifting was also dealt with quite extensively. The fact that the soil is drifting stops drifting on or around July first, a light seeding of oats will furnish a forage crop and also hold the snow the following winter to replace the moisture consumed by the forage crop and prevent drifting of soil the following spring.

It is a lamentable fact that on so short a notice some of our members were unable to attend but hope to be favored again at our annual picnic some time after seedling.

Don't forget our next meeting on April 2nd at eight p.m.

Killarney U. F. A.

Meeting of the Killarney U.F.A. was held in the schoolhouse. President J. Semple in the chair.

Two more delegates were appointed on District Association, viz. T. Armour and R. Fulton.

The following new members were elected. W. T. Watson, E. B. Lang, T. LaBlanc, E. Lambert and L. A. Cayford.

Lealholme U.F.A. & U.F.W.A. Notes

The U.F.A. and U.F.W.A. of Lealholme spent a very enjoyable evening on Friday, March 26th. Both young and old took part in games, dancing and card playing, not mentioning the lunch served by the ladies.

Did you hear that the "Prosperity White Shirts" were to give a dance on April 9th?

Don't forget the U.F.W.A. meeting at Mrs. C. Miller's on April 8th at 2.30 p.m. sharp.

Experience keeps a dear school, but fools will learn, in no other.

Mr and Mrs Clendenan, of Edgerton, were visitors to Chauvin, Monday.

Mr J. A. Palmer was a visitor to Chauvin early this week.

Local Notes Of Interest

Spring is reported late. It is not known when it will get here—off the truck may-be.

Some geese have been seen going north during the past days. They evidently are making an aviation excursion to the pole.

Still after spring must be on the way, we hear that C. G. Forryhan has invested in a car.

Mr. Alex Taylor was a visitor to Edmonton last week. He brought back the Editor who had been getting out of town in quick time last Thursday afternoon.

A local lady who is quite accustomed to wearing the plain gold ring, recently entered the Allan hardware emporium and requested to be supplied with a separator ring. Hope no divorce is pending.

Don't forget the G.W.V.A. Auxiliary Sale work and home cooking next April 2nd.

Mr George Gibbs is a visitor to Edmonton this week.

Those having horses in excess of their requirements will find a cash buyer for them in Chauvin on April 5th and 10th when George Henderson will be here. See A. E. Keith for further particulars.

Mr. Hudson, M.L.A. has promised to do his utmost to get the telephone line installed in the town of Green Glade district.

His offer is appreciated, and is being considered by the farmers in the Killarney district.

Premier Stewart is most emphatically against increasing the telephone rate in the present state of finances in the rural districts.

This sounds like the sort of sensible remarks we expect from our Farmer Premier.

The first duck of the season was seen on the Killarney trail the other evening, in the vicinity of a "NOR-MOUS puddle."

Full particulars can be supplied by Mrs. Campbell or R. A. Polton, to stand at a discreet distance when speaking details.

Mr. Archie Irvine, of Ribstone was a visitor to Chauvin on Sunday.

Miss. Coleman, has made her first spring visit to Chauvin this week, and has been displaying some very pretty hats in Roy's store.

Note:— Our new serial is a brief narrative and sketch of life in a battalion of one of Lord Kitchener's first armies.

The Experiences Of An American In Kitchener's Mob

They were courageous, those women in the firing-line. Their thoughts were They were courageous, those women always for their husbands and sons and brothers who were fighting side by side with us. Meanwhile they kept little shops and canteens open for the soldiers' trade and made a brave show of living in the old way. In Argemonts a few old men lent their aid in keeping up the pretense, but the feeble little trickle of civilian life made scarcely an impression in the broad current of military activity. A solitary postman, with a moved HET full of letters made his morning rounds of echoing streets, and a bent old man with newspapers hobbled slowly along Rue East-Cornet shouting boarded windows and bolted doors. "Le Martin" ("Le Journal") to Meanwhile, we marched back and forth between billets in the town and trenches just outside. And the last thing we saw before leaving the town and going upon returning, was the lengthening row of new-made graves close to the sunny wall in the garden of the ruined convent. It was a pathetic little burial plot, filled with the bodies of women and children who had been killed in German bombardments of the town.

And thus for more than three months while we were waiting for Fritz to "come out" we adapted ourselves to the changing conditions of trench life and trench warfare, with a readiness which surprised and gratified us. Our very practical training in England had prepared us, in a measure, for simple and primitive living. But even with such preparation we had constantly to revise downward our standards. We lived without comforts which we before had regarded as absolutely essential. We lived a life so crude and rough that our army experiences in England seemed Utopian by comparison. As life throve splendidly in the trenches, so our health and our welfare had vacillated. We had been inoculated and vaccinated our bodies to withstand hardships and to endure privations. In England asked whether we would or no, and the result was that fevers were practically non-existent in the trenches.

What sickness there was due to inclement weather rather than to unsanitary conditions.

Although there were sad gaps in our ranks, the trench and camp fevers in other ways were not responsible for them. Bullets, bombs and shells took their toll day by day but so gradually that we had been given time to forget that we had ever known the security of civilian life. We were soon to experience the horrors of modern warfare in its worst; to be living from morning until evening and from dusk until dawn, looking upon a new day with a feeling of wonder that we had survived so long.

CHAPTER G MOVING IN

About the middle of September it became quite clear to us that a big drive was at hand. There was increased artillery activity along the entire front. The men note with great satisfaction that the shells from our was a welcome indication that England was at last meeting the longlost need for high explosives.

"Loyd George ain't been asleep," some unharmed seer would say nodding his head wisely, "E's a long wile get tin' ready, but w'en 'e is ready, there aint'n a go'n to drop!"

There was a feeling of excitement everywhere. The men looked to their rifles with greater interest. They examined more carefully their bandoliers of ammunition and their gas helmets; and they were thoughtful about keeping their metal pocket mirrors and cigarette cases in their left-hand breast pockets, for any Tommy can tell you of the miraculous escapes from death due to such protective armoring over the heart.

The thunder of guns increased each passing day. The fire appeared to be distributed evenly over many miles of frontage. In moments of comparative quiet along our sector we could hear them muttering and rumbling miles away to our left and right. We awaited developments with the greatest impatience, for we knew that this general bombardment was but a preliminary one for the purpose of concealing until the last moment the plan of the attack, the portion of the front where the great artillery concentration would be made and the infantry assaults pushed home. There came sudden orders to move. Within twenty-four hours the roads were filled with incoming troops of a new division. We made a rapid march to head rail, untrained and were soon moving southward by an indirect route; southward toward the sound of the guns to take an inconspicuous part in the battle of Loos.

We were wet and tired and cold and hungry, for we had left the train miles back of the firing line and had been marching through the rain since early morning; but, as the sergeant said, "A bloke standing by the side o' the road, watchin' this 'ere column go past would think we was a-go'n to a Sunday school picnic." The roads were filled with endless processions of singing shouting soldiers. Seen from a long distance the columns gave the appearance of imposing strength. One thought of them as battalions, brigades, divisions, cohesive parts of a great machine, marching in unison. As we made way for each other, what an absorbing pageant of personality! Each rank was a series of intimate pictures. Everywhere there was laughing, singing, and merry minstrelsy of mouth-organs.

The jollity in my own part of the line was doubtless a picture in little of what was happening elsewhere. We were anticipating the exciting times just at hand. Mac, who was blown to pieces by a shell a few hours later, was dancing in and out of the ranks singing—

"Oh! Won't it be joyful
A Rapt march it be joyful!"

Preston was killed at the same moment threw his rifle in the air and caught it again in sheer excess of animal spirits. Three rollicking lads, all of whom we buried during the week in the same shell hole under the same wooden cross studded with an exact pointed show of utter weariness singing—

"We never knew till now how mud dy mud is,
We never knew how muddy mud could be!"

And little Charley Harrison, who had fibbed bravely about his age to the recruiting officers, trudged contentedly along, his rifle slung jauntily over his shoulder, and munched his army biscuit with all the relish of an old campaigner. Several days later he said good bye to us, and made his journey back the same road, this time in a motor ambulance; and as I write he is hobbling about a London hospital ward one trouser leg pathetically empty.

I remember that march in the light of our later experience, in the light of the official report of the total British casualties at Loos: sixty thousand British lads killed, wounded, missing. Marching four abreast, a column of casualties a mile long. I see them plodding lightly, heartily through the their faces wet with rain "an' a bloke standin' by the side o' the road would think we was a-go'n to a Sunday-school picnic."

The sergeant was in a talkative mood. "Listen to them guns barkin'! We're in for it this time, straight!" Then, turning to the men behind—"Are you got yer wile made out, my lad? You're a-go'n to see a scrap presently, an' it ain't go'n to be no flea-bite, I give you my word!" "Right yon are, sergeant! I'm leavin' no razor to 'is Majesty. Ope 'e'll tyke the 'im!" "Strides me pink sergeant! You gettin' cold feet?"

"Less sing 'em, I want to go 'ome' rather sing about than meet. "Vltu" the sergeant said, smiling grimly, "Just wile till we reach the end of this 'ere march You'll be singin' the song out of the other side of yer faces."

We halted in the evening at a little mining village and were billeted for the night in houses, stables, and even thin water-soaked fields, for there was not sufficient accommodation for all of us. With a dozen of my comrades I slept on the floor in the kitchen of a miners cottage, and listened, far into the night to the constant procession of motor ambulances, the tramp of marching feet, the thunder of guns, the rattle of windows, and the sound of breaking glass.

The following day we spent in cleaning our rifles which were caked with rust, and in washing our clothes. We had to put these, still wet, into our packs, for at dusk we fell in, in column of route, along the village street when our officer told us what was before us. I remember how vividly and honestly one of them described the situation.

"Listen carefully, men. We are moving off in a few minutes, to take over captured German trenches on the left of Loos. No one knows yet just how the land lies there. The reports we have had are confused and rather conflicting. The boys you are going to relieve have been having a hard time. The trenches are full of dead. Those who are left are worn out with the strain, and they need sleep. They won't care to stop long after we come in, so you must not expect much information from them. You will have to find out these things for yourselves. But I know you will enough to feel certain that you will. From how on you'll not have it easy. You will have to sit tight under a heavy fire from the German batteries. You will have to repulse counter-attacks for a long time. We make every effort to retake those trenches. But remember! You're British Soldiers! Whatever happens you've got to hang on!"

We marched down a road nearly a foot deep in mud. It had been churned up to a thick paste by thousands of feet and all the heavy wheel traffic incident of the business of war. The rain was coming down steadily, and it was pitch dark, except for the reflected light on the low-hanging clouds, of the flashes from the guns of our batteries and those of the bursting shells of the enemy. We halted frequently, to make way for long files of ambulances which moved as rapidly as the darkness and the awful condition of the roads would permit. I counted twenty of them during one halt, and then stopped, thinking of the pain of the poor fellows inside their wounds, wrenched and torn by the constant pitching and jolting. We had vivid glimpses of them by the light from flashing guns, and of the Red Cross attendants at the rear of the cars, standing the upper tiers of stretchers on either side. The heavy Garrison artillery was by this time far behind us. The big shells went over with a hollow roar, like the sound of an express train heard at a distance in the rattle of houses on every side. The guns were firing at a tremendous rate, the shells exploding several miles away with a sound of jarring thunder claps.

In addition to the ambulances there was a constant stream of outgoing traffic of other kinds: dispatch riders on motor cycles, feeling their way cautiously along the side of the road; ammunition supply and battalion transport wagons, the horses rearing and plunging in the darkness. We approached a crossroad and halted to make way for some batteries of field pieces moving to new positions. They went by on a slippery cobble road, the horses at a dead gallop. In the red lightnings of heavy-gun fire they looked like a series of splendid sculptured groups.

We moved on and halted, moved on again, stumbled into ditches to get out of the way of headquarters cars and motor lorries, jumped over and pushed on. Every step through the thick mud was taken with an effort. We frequently lost touch with the troops ahead of us and would have to march at the double in order to catch up. I was fast getting into that dependent, despairing frame of mind which often follows great physical weariness, when I remembered a bit of wisdom out of a book by William James which I had read several years before. He had said, in effect, that men have layers of energy, reserves of nervous force, which they are rarely called upon to use, but which are, nevertheless, assets of great value in times of strain. I had occasion to test the truth of this statement during that night march, and at intervals later, when I felt that I had reached the end of my resources of strength. And I found it to be practical wisdom which stood me in good stead on more than one occasion.

(To be continued in our next)

Have your eyes properly and scientifically tested by one who knows the business, by one who is here every day of the year to remedy any errors or make necessary repairs.

WATER REQUIREMENTS OF PLANTS

To the farmer in many parts of Alberta where moisture is the limiting factor in crop production, there is no subject more interesting than that which deals with the conditions governing the regulation of moisture supply. Dr. Wyatt, Professor of Soils in the University of Alberta, summarizes the conditions as follows:

No two crops require the same amount of water to produce a pound of dry matter. The amount required for any one crop will not be the same on the same soil for any two seasons.

Likewise the same crop grown upon different soils in the same season will have different water requirements. Some crops, by virtue of their extensive root systems, may occupy a greater depth of soil and utilize a correspondingly high percentage of the total soil moisture. The various crops, however, have approximately the same wilting co-efficient when grown upon the same soil; that is, they wilt beyond recovery when the soil moisture has been reduced to a certain point. For the same soil and different crops, the wilting co-efficients do not usually vary more than 15 per cent, whereas for the same crop grown on different types of soil, the wilting co-efficients may vary anywhere from 5 to 30 per cent. On some peat soils plants will wilt beyond recovery even the soil contains 70 per cent of moisture. The wilting co-efficient of sandy soils is on an average from 5 to 8 per cent, and loam soils from 12 to 15 per cent. The wilting co-efficient, in other words, represents the lower limit of available moisture.

The amount of water required by plants to produce one pound of dry matter is dependent upon the amount of transpiration, which in turn is dependent upon a number of factors, such as:

- (a) High temperature increase and transpiration.
- (b) Movement of air increases transpiration.
- (c) Low humidity (dry air) increases transpiration.
- (d) More water is transpired by plants when grown upon poor soil than when grown upon a soil well supplied with plant food.
- (e) Transpiration increases with brightness of sunshine.

(f) The more water there is in the soil, the greater is the transpiration. The number of pounds of water that actually pass through a plant for each pound of dry matter produced gives the transpiration ratio. However, under agricultural conditions, the water passing through the plant is not all the water lost from the soil, as evaporation is simultaneously taking place. The direct loss, by evaporation from the soil surface, if checked completely, would hinder plant growth. The amount evaporating from the soil necessary to produce one pound of dry matter constitutes the crop-transpiration ratio, which is invariably higher than the evaporation ratio. The evapo-transpiration ratio corresponds more closely with the amount of water required under field conditions. Students of the subject have not always distinguished between the two ratios. Cultivation lessens the amount of water required by plants, as above shown by Widdow.

Water Required for One Pound of Dry Matter

Not Cultivated Cultivated
Sand Soil	603	252
Clay Soil	428	218
Clay	728	522
Type not given	451	225

In any given locality the transpiration ratio is not even approximately constant. The variability of the water requirements of plants is well brought out by the following summary, which shows the limit of fluctuation for several of the standard crops:

Transpiration Ratio
Crop	India	Leather
Wheat	422—1,133	258—2,017
Oats ..	490—1,117	...
Barley ..	422—679	...
Corn ..	346—804	151—1,012
Peas ..	451—973	203—1,058

The increase in available plant foods reduces the water requirements. Of the plant foods, the most important is an adequate supply of nitrates. Soluble substances other than plant foods tend to decrease the rate of transpiration but do not decrease the water cost of dry matter in plants. As the organic matter of the soil is the source of nitrates for all non-leguminous plants, it is essential that we make some provision whereby the soil will not become depleted of organic matter. Organic matter must undergo bacterial decomposition before its nitrogen is converted into nitrate form and in order to secure such decomposition it is necessary to have an adequate supply of moisture present in the soil, and at the same time have the soil loose enough so that it is well aerated.

One significant fact is brought out by studies of the moisture requirements of plants; namely that certain crops require much less moisture per unit of dry matter than do others, and therefore should be selected whenever possible for regions of low rainfall.

EDGERTON ECHOES

There has been a revival in Edgerton. Surprised, are you not, the writer is. For the Board of Trade has been revived, and started away with a good membership and the leading citizens are showing backing this move. On Friday night the 25th of March the first regular meeting was held and the President W. D. Murdoch, Vice-President Dr. J. S. Smith, Secretary E. E. Jackson, Treasurer, Mr. Kerr; and members, P. S. Pawsey, H. S. B. Wheeler, J. C. McLeod, W. H. Hallett, Mr. Knott, Jim Watson, Stratton, G. L. Morrow Ed. Ripley, Wm Stewart, Boyd.

Much of the time was taken up outlining a few of the things that are very important to the Village and district at this time, mainly the procuring feed for stock, purchasing recreation and sports grounds, calling a meeting of the Edgerton Cemetery Association with the object of making improvements, securing public speakers who are speaking at other points in the province. A committee of Messrs Morrow, Kott and McLeod was appointed to arrange for a smoker to be held at an early date when we trust a large number from the country will come in and join the Board of Trade. The regular night of meeting will be the last Friday of each month.

Oddfellows At Home Was Pleasant Event

A very happy evening was spent by all who attended the social evening given by the Odd Fellows in their hall last Wednesday, March 24th.

There were present a full representation of the Oddfellows, in response to the invitation of the Oddfellows, and also a number of visiting brothers from Arctand, Marsden, Ribstone and other points. The ladies were well represented by the sisters of the Rebekah order and guests.

Supper was laid in the Hall before the guests arrived, by the committee, assisted by the Rebekahs, and the tables were laden with good things. Messrs. Teddy Maxwell G. Newstead, W. Pettie, R. H. Beattie, G. M. Poate and D. W. Parcels adorned themselves in aprons and acted as waiters, and performed that duty well.

When all the guests had been satisfied, the waiters sat down at a table which had been reserved for them, and in turn were thanked by Miss Mary Cargill and Mr. Wm. Rodden.

At the conclusion of the banquetting a short program was rendered, D. W. Parcels, chairman giving a few brief, but appropriate remarks in his opening speech. The toast to Canada was then proposed by Mr. G. M. Beattie and responded to by Mr. Fred Holbrook.

Mrs. G. Forryan then sang, accompanying herself on the piano, a difficult task, which she performed in a manner which brought much applause. The toast to the Ladies proposed by J. E. Kothman, and responded to by A. E. Keith raised deep feelings in the hearts of all present, and though this toast, as were all the others of the evening, was drunk to cold tea.

The profound depth of admiration stirred was more than sufficient to cover the sense of the inadequacy of the fluid consumed. Miss Violet Perry and Miss M. Rodden in proposing the toast to the Batchelors gave utterance to very radical, but sensible and timely sentiments. We venture to suggest that the benedictions would be well advised to elect these ladies to parliament. The toast to the Fraternal Orders, proposed by J. A. Code, and seconded by G. C. McKechnie, indicated the sterling advantages and duties of belonging to one or both the orders now instituted in Chauvin. Mrs. P. H. Perry and Mrs. H. N. Freeman each gave recitations.

While the first dances were being enjoyed the committee arranged the palato: meat, cakes, and BUTTER, on plates, and a halt being called in the dances, Teddy conducted an Auction Sale and realized quite a sum from plates format etc. The bidding was lively and in a short time the last place was auctioned and the gratifying sum of $28.25 which had been raised

The Demand For Land Will Be Very Keen

Those having farm lands to sell are advised to list them with T. H. Saul. We are on the eve of a period of immigration, thousands are coming over from the British Isles. To those who are coming over the first question is in which part of Canada may it be assured of find farm lands ready for me. Many of these new comers are experienced farmers, who are looking for established farms. If your listings are ready for their inspection you are sure to find a buyer. List now with T. H. Saul, and your farm is as good as sold next fall to one of these Old Country farmers. Your farm will be placed before the attention of intending buyers by our representative, Mr. Beattie, before they leave for Canada.

Regaining Health

Chris Larson one of our able past President and now hon. director, who was taken with "flu" early in January. The complaint was pneumonia, set in and for some time anxious over its severe illness. And the possibility of losing such a high-esteemed comrade and friend was on the tongue of a large number of his friends who were in constant touch with his illness. On March the 12th, on the advice of Doctor York of Provost Chris was taken into Provost and by train to Edmonton for treatment for stomach trouble which had now afflicted him.

The latest word from Edmonton was, that he is able to take a little nourishment and digest it and that he will be brought back home on Saturday April 3rd, and we hope that he will be long spared to his family re-

Canada's Cattle

Our national stock of cattle today, compared with population, exactly in the state it was twelve years ago. In simplest form, the number of cattle to inhabitants for three typical years was:

1908 1.12
191190
1919 1.12

That is, the increase in cattle year by year has only kept pace steadily with the growth of domestic population; it has allowed no margin for more export trade.

Yet during those twelve years there has been a tremendous expansion in the overseas markets which might be served by Canada and all means of reaching those markets, transportation, shipping and marketing facilities, have been improved.

According to the returns of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the number of cattle was 7,546,000 in 1908, when the population was estimated at 6,650,000. In 1919, the number, including milk cows, was 10,083,000 with the estimated population slightly under 9,000,000.

Necessity Of Expert

Brand Readers

The necessity of having properly qualified brand readers was amply demonstrated at the recent sessions at Wainwright, in trials held by Judge Taylor. In one case emanating from the Irons district no less than fifteen witnesses were heard regarding the brands on a certain animal. In another case, Halletta Byrnes, a still greater number of witnesses were called to give evidence. This case was adjourned until April 12th.

Dan Loy was tried for failure to support his family, who live in the Manitow Lake district. After hearing the evidence, A. E. Keith, J.P. ordered defendant to pay costs $57.25, and after warning him allowed him his freedom rather than inflicting the period of imprisonment according to law.

Blackleg Germ. Free Vaccine (injection) now in stock. Animals vaccinated with this vaccine are considered immune from the disease for 2-3 years practically speaking for the life of the animal. Any animal which to change from the pill system should use.

ARTLAND ARGUS

The Artland Live Stock Association have sent two representatives to Edmonton, with the object of buying a good bull at the sale there.

These buyers are very keen, and we may depend on their bringing back the best animal, or none if the offerings are not good enough for them.

Though Artland has been fortunate in the feed supply, the farmers are now looking for spring, as the supply is now getting low. Artland has shipped out more feed than any point on the Wainwright-Biggar division.

Mears Parcells and Foxwell have arranged with the P. Burns Creamery to receive cream for shipment. By this means patrons of the creamery will be able to bring their cream to town at any time of the day, and have their cream stored in a cold room until train time, ensuring the highest returns.

We are informed that the provincial government has issued instructions to the effect that the strongest action is to be taken against offenders of Prairie Fires Ordinance this season.

Church—"I am the Living One."
... YOUNG PEOPLES SOCIETY ...
The young people of the above Society are to give a Social on Thursday night at eight o'clock in the Westminster Church. All provisions are to All are cordially welcome.

DON'T BLOW YOUR OWN HORN

Boast not thyself tomorrow; for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth. Let another man praise thee, and not thine own mouth: a stranger and not thine own lips.—Proverbs, chap. 27, verse 1.

AVERAGE FELLOW USES 5,000 WORDS

How many words do you know how to use? Do you think you know 5,000?
If so, you have the vocabulary of an average person.

But Shakespeare used over 15,000; some people figure his vocabulary as high as 24,000 words. Milton used 15,000.

Perhaps you can't get a long list of words as Shakespeare or Milton, but you can increase your number you use.

Formalin

Formalin guaranteed 49 per cent, for killing smut in grain. Price 55c per pound. (quotations for barrel, lots on application) At this price you cannot send to any Mail Order House in Canada and save money. We have studied the prices carefully and have more than met their prices. We make this statement without fear of contradiction. We have a fairly good supply right here where it is most convenient for you, and are anxious to fill your orders. We figure on knocking the "L" out of the Mail Order this year.

The Elephants And The Moon

In a time of drought a number of elephants were pressed hard to find water for themselves. But at last they discovered a pool, near which lived a colony of hares, and in going to and for the elephants used to trample upon several hares every day. At last the matter became so serious that a meeting of the hares was held, and, after a good deal of discussion, an old hare undertook to make the elephants peace using the pool.

Standing upon a hillock, as the elephants approached, he said to their leader:

"Sir, I am an ambassador from the moon, who wishes you to know that now in his pool, and that the hares whom you are driving away are his guardians."

"We know nothing of this," said the elephant.

"Well if you come here tonight, you will see the moon in the pool, shaking his ears."

The elephant went. He saw the reflection of the moon, which quaked as the water rippled, and in great fear he promised that the elephants should trespass on the pool no more.

"Superstition often causes those who are mighty to tremble."

WHAT IS IT?

Each line in this little verse represents one letter in a word. Can you guess what the answer is without looking at the answer?

Two right angles to meet.
A circle complete.
Two semi-circles with a bar,
A triangle, stood on two feet,
A semi-circle,
And a circle-circle.
Answer: TOBACCO.

When is a kind man like a rogue?
When he takes a poor man in.

THE CAT AND THE MICE

A certain house was overrun with mice, so its owner got a cat, who caught and ate a great number of the mischievous little animals.

The mice, finding their numbers growing thinner, consulted together how best to preserve themselves from the jaws of the cat, and they decided that none of them should go down below the top shelf, where the cat could not get hold of them.

The cat, finding that the mice no longer came down, got very hungry and resolved upon a clever trick. She hung by her hind legs to a nail on the wall, and pretended to be dead, hoping by this means to persuade the mice to come down.

She had not been here long before a cunning old mouse peeped over the edge of the shelf, and said: "Ah, my good friend, you may hang there as long as you like, but I certainly would not trust myself with you, even if I knew that your skin was stuffed with straw."

"It is better to be on the safe side."

Why are bells very obedient?
Because they never ring until they are told (tollled).

Master: Why does the earth turn round on its axes?

Boy: Because it doesn't want to get tosted too much on one side.

Mrs. Thrice-wood—"Well Elsie how do you like your new papa?"

Elsie—"Oh, mama, do so on marrying men like him; he gave me a whole dollar."

Ed—"Have you forgotten you owe me five dollars?"

Ned—"No, not yet, give me the time and I will."

Life-Guard (rushing up excitedly):
"Madam, your poor husband has been drowned."

The widow (in bathing costume):
"And have they found his body?"

Life-Guard "No it's lost."

Widow "Now, isn't that just too provoking—he had the key to our bath-house around his neck."

Mistress (to newly installed cook)
"Matthew! What does this mean?"

How did this policeman get here?"
Cook (equal to the occasion) "Dunno, mum. 'E must 'ave bin left over by the last cook."

After paying our meat bill, we know just how Shylock felt when he demanded his pound of meat after paying for it.

We should not dwell too deeply on the past—full of mistakes, regrets, and might-have-beens. By so doing the mind grows limp and discouraged.

LADIES COLUMN

APPLE SHORTCAKE

Take eight ounces of lard, and rub into a pound of flour, with a pinch of salt and two teaspoonfuls of baking-powder and make into a paste with about half a pint of water. Divide it into two and roll out into large rounds of equal size and thickness. Put one round on a floured baking-sheet. Peel, core and slice four large good cooking apples, and pile them on the pastry, together with three ounces of sugar and one of butter, and a little nutmeg. Wet the edges of the pastry, lay the other round on top, pinch the edges together and put it at once to bake in a hot oven. When the pastry begins to color remove it to a cooler part of the oven, or cover it with paper, and bake for from thirty to forty minutes. Serve with sugar sifted on the top.

CORN FLAKE FANCIES

Whites of 2 eggs
1-3 teaspoonful salt
1-2 cup cocoanut
12 cup sugar
2 cups corn flakes
1-2 teaspoonful vanilla

Beat the egg whites until stiff, add the sugar gradually, the cornflakes and cocoanut. Drop with a teaspoon one inch apart on buttered paper.

APPLE SURPRISE

This is a very good desert and may be partially prepared the day before it is to be used.

6 apples
1 cup water
1-2 cup grated pineapple
Juice of 1 lemon
1 cup sugar
2 bananas
Whipped cream

Pare and scoop out good core spaces from six apples, put the sugar, water and lemon juice in a saucepan and bring to the boil. Put in the apples and simmer until they are tender but not broken up. Mash the bananas, add the grated pineapple and fill the core spaces. Lift each apple carefully to an individual serving dish, cover the whole of the apple with whipped cream and garnish with cherries or bits of red jelly. The bananas and pineapple may be omitted.

Cement for mending delicate china may be made by mixing rice flour with cold water and simmering it gently over a fire until it becomes thick.

BREAD DOUGH RUSKS

2 cups raised dough
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter
2 eggs, (well beaten)
flour

Mix with enough flour to make a stiff dough. Set to rise. When light mould to high blarney and let rise again. Add currants. Cover top with moistened sugar and cinnamon. Bake twenty minutes.

Hat Cleaning

White straw hats can be cleaned by rubbing with a cut lemon, and afterwards rinsing in cold water. If the hat requires stiffening, it must be brushed over then with a solution of gum and water. A hat which has been scorched by the sun can be whitened again by a solution made of one teaspoonful of oxalic acid dissolved in half a pint of warm water. Brush on evenly round the hat, then rinse in cold water and allow to dry in the open air.

A white felt hat may be cleaned by rubbing over with calcined magnesite applied with a soft brush. Put the hat aside for a day, then shake off the powder. If not then perfectly clean, repeat the treatment. Another very effective method is to use bran moistened with petrol, and rubbed over the hat.

To make a tight shoe more easy trying a cloth wrung out of hot water across the place where it pinches. This should be renewed several times, till the moist heat has caused the leather to mould itself to the foot of the wearer.

If stung by an insect, take an onion cut it, and rub it on to the place. The juice rubbed into the flesh relieves the pain and stops the swelling.

Wood Ash is useful for cleaning and polishing steel, pewter, brass also aluminium and copper.

Lemon juice or cream of tartar added to pastry not only makes it crisp and light, but renders it much more digestible.

Honey should be kept in a dark place or it will granulate.

TO CLEAN BRONZE ORNAMENTS

Sweet oil is excellent for cleaning bronze ornaments. Rub a little well over them, and polish with a dry duster. Afterwards rub well with a soft camolais and they will look like new.

Grain Growers Meeting At Brady

Meeting of the Grain Growers was held at Brady School, Saturday March 21st. Business of a general nature was transacted.

Since the Marsden Grain Growers had organized, application was made by Messrs Loy, Spence and Studie for transfer to new Marsden Local. valued members, the meeting was unanimous in wishing the Local every success.

Having adjourned Mr. George
Lawson was asked to take the chair.
A paper on "Our Great Mtn" was then read by Mr. K. W. Coe. Brady always looks for something good from Mr. Coe and they were not disappointed on this occasion. The paper was well composed and Mr. Coe at the conclusion was complimented on his efforts. Very little criticism could be offered as the men selected are all recognized as leading men of the present day.

The M. I. Society again meet on Saturday, April 2nd when Mr. Swindell gives his paper on "Our Educational System". This interesting subject should merit a large attendance as it is in very capable hands.

Some interesting developments have lately taken place in the district along the line of live stock.

We observe in the "Regina Leader" of March 15th, and in the "Saskatoon Star" of the 18th instant: That Mr.
J. S. Palmer has purchased that well known bull "Red Fox". The animal is "bred in the purple" with both the British and Fairfax strain in him, and in 1918 was junior Champion as senior bull calf in the Canadian West Circuit, taking the place at five of the best Exhibitions. The same year he took the gold medal of the Bank of Commerce for the best bull calf of any breed.

The late owner, Mr. Fuller of the Arm river Stock farm was offered $2500, but refused, as he was wanted in the herd.

We see by the "Saskatoon Star" that the price paid by Mr. Palmer for this bull, was $1000.

In connection with this business, we may remark that with reference to the paragraph in our issue of the 10th March, mention should have been made that Mr. Palmer was the breeder of the two Fairfax bulls sold to the Artland Live Stock Association.

We are given to understand that the appeal of Mr. A. W. Wright, has been dismissed in the suit arising out of the M. L. Municipal election.

RIBSTONE RECORD

Mrs. Victor Dallyn met with an accident on Monday by having the end of her finger taken off.

Mr. Albert White returned from Edmonton on Saturday.

We are sorry to hear Mr. and Mrs.
E. Hurst are expecting to leave for England next week.

A few young folks gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cryderman last Friday evening.

We are glad to welcome our spring birds, back again.

Mrs. A. Dolson left on Sunday for Wainwright and returned on Monday.

Mrs. Laura Clifford returned to her home last Thursday from Chauvin.

where she has been spending a few days.

We are glad to be able to report that Mr. John Young who has had a very sore hand is improving.

Ribstone W. I. Notes

The next monthly meeting of the Women's Institute will take place on Saturday, April 3rd. It is hoped that all members will be present. The delegate's report will be read, and much business is to be discussed. Meeting will open at 2 p.m. to be closed on time.
Everybody welcome. Municipal Hall, Ribstone.

Good-bye March, we've seen enough of you.

OUR LITTLE ADS DO BIG WORK

LANDS

Canadian Pacific Railway Lands: Call in and see the price list: 20 years terms, one-tenth cash payment with application; no further payment of capital until the fourth year. Interest at six per cent per annum. If the necessary improvements are executed in the first year, the interest will be reduced to two per cent for two years. This is a good proposition, and these lands are being rapidly absorbed. Do not delay until too late, as these lands will be turned over again at a big profit.

Hudsons Bay Lands. I have the latest prices on all the holdings of the Hudsons Bay Company and am ready to quote you at any time. The terms are—8 equal payments with interest at seven per cent per annum. The prices are now down to a very low figure, and these lands are sure to turn out to be a good business proposition. Values will soar again, and the H.B. Lands are mighty good buying at present quotations.
That quarter alongside your own will make a fine addition to your farm; and, believe me, it is better to be in on the ground floor when you buy.

Loan Companies have all kinds of Money to Loan on Improved Farm Property, First Mortgage. I am advised by one of the most reliable firms that their great concern at the present time is to find sufficient applications to take up this surplus money. Interest at eight per cent. Five or ten year terms. No commissions charged to the Mortgagor; and the costs of obtaining same were never so low as at the present time. If you are interested, call or write; but remember that there is no shortage of cash for this purpose.

The Cheapest Rate for Farm Buildings is quoted at Forty Cents per $100 per annum; Three years for $1.20 per $100; and this rate is only quoted by the WAWAESA MUTUAL ASSUR-ANCE COMPANY. This is a purely farmers' company, and handles only
